THE Christmas motif was the scheme of decoration for the tea given by Mrs. F. W. Berkshire in honor of Mrs. J. H. Griggs-Pagan, a recent bride, and Mrs. John C. Wagoner, Mrs. Griggs-Pagan is the guest of Mrs. George A. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Griggs-Pagan are the guests of Mrs. Griggs-Pagan's mother, Mrs. A. F. Pagan, at the Pagan home in Richmond, Texas.

The reception rooms and dining room were decorated for the tea, which is one of a series of pretty affairs being given during the season by Mrs. Berkshire, with arched carnations and green tulle, thus emphasizing the holiday colors of crimson and green. The table for the tea service in the dining room was covered with a bowl of crimson carnations and ferns and lighted with candles. Mrs. Griggs-Pagan, Mrs. Wagoner, Mrs. Griggs-Pagan, Mrs. William J. Jennings, Mrs. A. F. Pagan, Mrs. Harry Cooper and Mrs. W. A. Woods received the guests and the members of the house party assisting in dispensing hospitality included Mrs. F. P. Henderson, of New

Col. and Mrs. F. W. Glover Entertain With Charming Party For Daughter

IN honor of the 15th birthday anniversary of their lovely young daughter, Miss Florence Glover, Col. and Mrs. Francis W. Glover were host and hostess on Thursday evening at one of the most charming parties of the season given for the younger set. The party was given at the Country Clubhouse and the honor guest received the guests at the entrance of the ball room with her father and mother, sister, Mrs. Talcott Prosser, Mrs. Smith and Miss Glover. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Elizabeth Glover, another attractive daughter of the house.

Great bouquets of crimson roses were the flowers of decoration in the clubhouse and were no more beautiful than the lovely levy of young guests present in dainty evening frocks. The honor guest was charming in a girlish frock of white and gold and her sister was given a pretty frill of peach blow valentines and children were served during the intermission and the big white birthday cake, the place of resistance of the serving table, was cut. The cake contained 15 candles, burned the number of years of Miss Florence's birthday anniversary.

The lovely young lady, furnished music for the dancing hours. The guest list included Misses Mary Lee, Margaret Stevens, Anna Martha, Caroline Warrick, Hilda Garret, Florence Brady, Miss Lusk and friend Kipp, Rufus and Charles Harvey, Carl Smith, Vernon Dale, John Lee, Raymond Patterson, Roy Sargent, Philip Dwyer, Russ Dwyer, Kenneth Dwyer, Sam Dwyer, Leroy Dwyer, Eric Dwyer, Billy Dwyer, Clifford Dwyer, Ira Hale, Sherrod Menger, Walter Reed, Edwards Dwyer, Herbert Dwyer, Walter Pelland, Lenz, and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Otto Smith and others.

The Philanthropic club of the First Presbyterian church, taught by Mrs. Henry T. Davis, had an unusual Christmas party on Thursday evening in the church dining room. Great festoons of silver tinsel were hung from the chandeliers interspersed with merry Christmas bells. On the tables were miniature Christmas bells heavily laden with stately trimmings. Santa Claus was in evidence at each cover for the individual guests.

A delicious supper was served by Miss Winnie Medall, Mrs. Thomas Schneider, Mrs. N. E. Vossy, Miss Louise Prosser, Miss Grace Hyland and Miss Marie Schneider. A short program on the work of the Presbyterian church among the Mexicans was presented by Dr. Nellie Satterlee, Mrs. Arthur Ramsey and Miss Margaret E. Ehart. Dr. Floyd Fox spoke of the local work being carried on in El Paso and of the plans for the new mission soon to be organized here.

After this program the girls enjoyed an auction sale conducted by Miss Kate Hanley. Christmas toys, dolls, greeting cards, Christmas trees and many good things to eat were sold to the highest bidder for many times more than the articles were worth in many instances, but the proceeds were added to the fund to support a missionary in Osaka, Japan.

The following were present at the party: Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Fox and daughter, Helen Louise; Mr. and Mrs.

Miss Katherine Clifford entertained Wednesday afternoon with a delightful birthday party in honor of her sister, Helen Lucille, the occasion being her ninth birthday.

A number of games were played. One which caused a great deal of amusement for the young folk was "The Tail of the Donkey." Helen McCarthy came runner and Rogers Galtin, Jr. second, while Nora Lane took the third place. Then there was a guessing game to try their luck in guessing the number of beans in the glass. Helen McCarthy guessed nearest and Gladys McCarthy came second, while Helen McCarthy received the consolation prize.

The following were present: Helen McCarthy, Helen McCarthy, Nora Lane, Margaret E. Ehart, Dorothy Stoddard, Gladys and Helen McCarthy, Helen and Katherine Clifford, Pamela Lane, Roger Galtin, Jr. and James Clifford.

Don't forget to give him water. Don't handle him except when necessary. Don't let light shine in his eyes, especially when asleep. Don't shake the crib or caddy where he lies; it makes him nervous. Don't put him on your knee or pick him up when he is nervous. Don't use the same blanket twice without airing. Don't drape him with medicine, soothing syrups, etc. If he seems restless, give him a teaspoon full of castor oil mixed with sugar. Don't kiss him in the mouth or let baby get your breath. Keep windows open when he sleeps. Be sure to have sufficient blankets to keep him warm. Don't feed without advice from a physician. Mother's milk is the best and safest food. Don't begin weaning him. Talk and reason with him. Weaning shocks the nervous system and frightens. Don't nag at him or interfere unless he needs correction. Some parents use too much bonding.

Combining Velveteen And Plaid Velour

By LESTER BENEFORD. THE fashion of wearing a velveteen sports coat with a plaid shirt is in decided favor. Brown velveteen is here combined with a shirt of brown and tan plaid, cut on the bias, with a seam down each side, bound with brown silk braid. The belt of tan leather is mounted with straps of brown velveteen that fasten with a brass buckle front and back. The coat of matching brown velvet is faced with the plaid material. A walking hat of tan velour, smartly turned on one side, shows a trimming of uncut brown velvet on the other. Tan spots and brown effects complete this smarter of sports costumes.

Exquisite

The woman who desires to be beautiful should be highly critical of all the toilet goods she uses—most particularly of her face powder.

Soul Kiss Face Powder is, in a word, exquisite—of purity, of texture, of perfume—the choice of the discriminating woman.
